

Why is energy storage important?

Storage is indispensable to the green energy revolution. The most abundant sources of renewable energy today are only intermittently available and need a steady, stored supply to smooth out these fluctuations. Energy storage technologies are also the key to lowering energy costs and integrating more renewable power into our grids, fast.

How many new storage projects have been approved in the developing world?

Twelve new projects across the developing world have already been approved, including in Bangladesh, Brazil, Colombia, Haiti, Honduras, India, Indonesia, the Maldives, and Ukraine. In the next three years, CIF plans to create 1.8 GW of new storage capacity and integrate an additional 16 GW.

Should storage projects be funded?

One large missing piece has been funding. Storage projects are risky investments: high costs, uncertain returns, and a limited track record. Only smart, large-scale, low-cost financing can lower those risks and clear the way for a clean future.

Energy storage systems empower homeowners with the possibility of going off-grid, liberating them from the variability of the power grid and energy prices. This independence is not only financially advantageous but also ensures that households have a reliable energy source in times of grid failures or if they are positioned in remote locations.

Prices are falling and new chemistries are being developed. Bain, a consultancy, estimates that the market for grid-scale storage could expand from around $15bn in 2023 to between $200bn and ...

Sunshine Hydro has developed such concept called Superhybrid(TM). A Superhybrid involves a cleverly optimised pumped hydro or other long-duration energy storage and flexible load like e-methanol production. It transforms intermittent renewable energy into 24/7 carbon-free electricity and a steady stream of green fuels.
